

Hi

We've been making progress with our Agile marketing efforts, but I think we could take it to the next level if I could work on my leadership agility. With some formal training, the other marketing leaders and I will be better equipped to manage the teams as they work in these new ways.

As I'm sure you know, effective leadership and support during a time of process change is a crucial factor that defines whether teams are successful with Agile practices or not.

I recently found that AgileSherpas, the leader in the marketing agility movement, offers a comprehensive online training program on the subject. With this format, I can make headway on this crucial topic even while we can't travel.

Credentials

- They were the first organization accredited to deliver an internationally recognized Certified Professional in Leading with Agility designation with a marketing focus (ICP-LEA) via the International Consortium for Agile (ICAgile)
- They've trained over 2,000+ marketers from Fortune 1,000 to Fortune 10, including TD Ameritrade, Dell, Randstad, and more.
- All their instructors are certified ICAgile instructors who have gone through a rigorous review process
- Their partners and trainers speak at marketing and Agile events all over the world, including Content Marketing World, MarketingProfs B2B Forum, Scrum Gatherings, SXSW, and MarTech.

Curriculum

You can see the training program's outline here, and download the complete set of learning objectives set up by ICAgile on their site here.

The course takes place during eight 90-minute classes spread out over eight weeks. Each one is led by a live instructor. Classes are offered on a rolling basis based on instructor availability.

Cost

$1,895 per attendee.

Designed by the world's leading experts in Agile marketing, this interactive, top-rated workshop will equip myself and other leaders within our organization with the competencies & capabilities to become effective Agile leaders for our respective teams.

Please let me know what you think; I'd love to attend.

Thank you,